“Why U.S.
Jurisdictions Should Adopt ‘Regulatory
Objectives’ for the Legal Profession”

Laurel S. Terry
*Harvey A. Feldman Distinguished Faculty Scholar and Professor of Law,
Penn State Dickinson School of Law*

The Howard Lichtenstein Distinguished Professorship was established in 1989 to remember Howard Lichtenstein, an outstanding lawyer with a genuine interest in legal education and the training and development of young lawyers. During his 44 years of practice, his primary concentration was in the field of labor law. As a senior partner at the law firm Proskauer Rose Goetz & Mendelsohn (now known as Proskauer Rose LLP), he was considered an authority on administrative law. In addition, Mr. Lichtenstein was a strong advocate for improving the teaching of legal ethics.

*Harvey A. Feldman
Distinguished Faculty
Scholar and Professor of Law, Penn State
Dickinson School of Law*

Laurel S. Terry is a preeminent scholar working in the area of legal ethics and the international and interjurisdictional regulation of the legal profession. She has examined trends in global lawyer regulation, the need to create a global umbrella organization for lawyer regulators, and the impact of the GATS, the FATF, the Bologna Process and antitrust initiatives on legal education and legal services. Professor Terry is a prolific scholar whose work is frequently cited. A three-time Fulbright grant recipient, she has been active in international, national and state organizations involved with lawyer regulation and has served as a LawWithoutWalls™ Thought Leader and Subject Matter Expert. Professor Terry is a member of the International Bar Association and American Law Institute.
